Fall Hiking at Kleinburg

This year we went exploring the area around the McMichael Canadian Art Gallery in Kleinburg as our fall event on Saturday September 30. That early morning was a bit overcast but the weather turned out unexpectedly fine when we assembled at the Bindertwine Park as scheduled. We started hiking south-bound along a branch of the Humber River before returning to Bindertwine Park for a simple picnic lunch at around noon. For those who were interested in native arts must have enjoyed the works of the Group of Seven at the gallery.

Let's recap the event by watching the following pictures:

A total of 34 adults, 2 babies, 1 boy and 3 dogs attended the hiking that morning. We didn't take a selfie with this group picture, otherwise Martin would have shown up with us. Can anyone help photoshop to put him back? If you bother to count the total number of attendees and wonder why two missing in this group. Well, they were probably still lining up in the washroom!

Of course the babies didn't walk but rather enjoyed the body warmth of their parents.

Didn't they realize that the dog couldn't wait any longer to poo?

The former (May Ho), the present (Christina Chan) and perhaps the future (Rosita Ho) alumni chairpersons!

Vivian told Winston that her older brother was one of the first group of F5 graduates in BHJS, and a current practicing dentist in Hong Kong. Sort of secret revealed !!

Martin is a brilliant tour guide and a story-teller. Keep up the good work, man!

Paying only 5 bucks for the delicious picnic lunch!
When will we have this again?
